

Field Study Notes

Performance reviews are coming up and you have been asked to create training material to teach new managers how to give feedback.

The request is for something that is easily accessible, possibly even portable, that the new managers can reference throughout their performance conversations.

Performance reviews will take place in the beginning of December and the senior leaders would like the participants to have at least 2 weeks to review and implement what they've learned.